NATURE PRINTING COURSE

The term 'NATURE PRINTING' embraces a variety of printmaking techniques. Fresh and preserved flora and fauna will be used during this course, as well as silicone 'life-forms' which have been cast directly from natural objects.

The focus of this course will be on the 'direct' technique and is suitable for all levels of ability including those with no previous experience of printmaking. Participants will also learn about colour, composition, printing techniques, printmaking materials, inks and a selection of western and oriental papers and how to finish and sign prints.

Rachel Ramirez is an artist printmaker with many years of experience in fine art printmaking and teaching. She has a masters degree from the RCA, London and a PhD from Porto University, where her thesis explored the Japanese printmaking technique, Gyotaku.
